Kickstart 2025 with the Wheel of Life 🌀

Hello Curious Minds,

First, a BIG THANK YOU to 2000+ subscribers for being a part of this amazing Being Curious journey!

🌟 As we step into 2025, it's the perfect moment to pause, reflect, and check in on the balance in our lives. One tool that has helped me immensely in staying grounded and focused is the Wheel of Life.

It's a simple yet powerful framework that helps you assess key areas of your life and make sure you're moving forward with purpose and harmony. I'm excited to share this with you, and I hope it brings clarity and balance to your year ahead!

1. Understand the Wheel of Life 🌀

The Wheel of Life consists of 3 key areas:

- Health – Mind, body, and soul 💪
- Wealth – Mission, growth, and money 💰
- Relationships – Family, friends, and romance 💕

Imagine Happiness as the outer rim of the wheel, holding everything

together and ensuring balance across all areas of your life.

2. Draw Your Wheel

Grab a piece of paper or on computer and draw a circle. Divide it into three segments, each representing one of the key areas above. This is your personal Wheel of Life.  Let it be a visual representation of the balance you're striving for!

3. Rate Your Satisfaction

Take a moment to rate each area from 1 to 10, where 1 is "not satisfied" and 10 is "completely satisfied." Be honest with yourself.  No judgment—this is just for YOU. Your ratings will show you where you stand!

4. Identify Imbalances

Look at your ratings. If one area is lower than the others, it may be a sign that it needs more attention. For example, if your Health score is low, it might be time to focus on some self-care.

5. Set Simple Goals

For each area, choose ONE simple, achievable goal. If Wealth is a bit behind, perhaps it's "Save 10% of my income this month."  Or, for Health, "Exercise for 30 minutes, 3 times a week." Keep it actionable and realistic.

6. Break Down the Goals

Now, take those goals and break them into smaller, actionable steps. For example, to achieve your Relationships goal of quality family time, "Schedule a family dinner every week" could be the first step!

7. Make Time for Each Area

Consistency is key. Set aside specific time slots in your week to focus on each area. Whether it's a Sunday health check-in, a financial planning session, or a movie night with family—make it a priority.

8. Track Your Progress

Keep track of your progress! Revisit your Wheel of Life once a month. Re-rate each area and see if the actions you're taking are leading to growth. It's okay to adjust your goals along the way.

9. Prioritize Happiness

Happiness is the key to everything! It's the joy that connects all the parts of your life. Make sure to carve out time for activities that bring you joy—whether it's a hobby, a walk in nature, or connecting with loved ones.

10. Reflect and Adjust Regularly

The Wheel of Life isn't a one-time exercise; it's a journey. Revisit it every few months to assess your progress. As life changes, so will your goals. Stay flexible, and remember: Growth is a process.

🌟 Your Turn! 🌟

Now it's time for you to create your own Wheel of Life. Take a moment to reflect, rate each area, and set one small goal for improvement. 💡
Share your thoughts or progress with me—I'd love to hear how you're applying this tool in your life! Let's keep the curiosity alive and make 2025 a year of intentional growth and balance. 🤝

Stay Curious, Vikas Surani ✨
